THE HOME GOLD CURE.

An Ingenious Treatment by Which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Doses—No Weakening of the Nerves—A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a disease and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "HOME GOLD CURE" which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of Drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WIVES CURE YOUR HUSBANDS!! CHILDREN CURE YOUR FATHERS!! This remedy is in no senes a nostrum but is a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of Drunkards have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "CURE" administerad by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. "The HOME GOLD CURE" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, thus placing within reach of everybody a treatment more effectual than others costing $25 to $50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skilled physicians when requested without extra charge. Sent prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. THE FOUR GUESTS.

A knock at the door, but he
Was dreaming a dream of fame,
And the one who knocked drew softly back,
And never again he came.
A knock at the door as soft—
As soft, as shy as a dove,
But the dreamer dreamed till the guest was gone,
And the guest was Love.

A knock at the door; again
The dreamer dreamed away
Unheeding, deaf to the gentle call
Of the one who came that day.
A knock at the door; no more
The guest to that door came,
Yet the dreamer dreamed of the one who called,
For the guest was Fame.

A knock at the door, but still
He gave no reply,
And the waiting guest gave a cheery hail
Ere he slowly wandered by.
A knock at the door; in dreams
The dreamer fain would grope
Till the guest stole on, with a humbled sigh,
And the guest was Hope.

A knock at the door; 'twas loud,
With might in every stroke,
And the dreamer stopped in his dreaming thought
And suddenly awoke.
A knock at the door; he ran
With the swiftness of a breath,
And the door swung wide, and the guest came in,
And the guest was Death.

THE DERELICT

A Weird Story of the Polar Sea.

BY A. G. PEARSE.

It was on the fourteenth day out from Wellington, New Zealand, while we were about 180 miles to the southward of Cape Horn, that we fell in with the derelict ship. Her name, still faintly to be read on the scarred timbers, was Resolution. That is all we learned about her from personal observation, for the fact that her hold was half full of water precluded the possibility of careful examination.

But on board of her we discovered a human derelict. He was lying in a heap in the galley, and at first we thought it was a mere bundle of furs and rags. Closer scrutiny, however, revealed the fact that the bundle was a man. There was a flicker of life in him—no more.

"Pull him around if you can," said the skipper to the ship's doctor. "I should like to hear how it was that he was drifting around in that old hulk, which, by the way, is a danger to navigation."

My one fellow passenger, a man named Holroyd, and myself hailed with satisfaction the doctor's announcement a couple of days later that the patient was sufficiently recovered to come up on deck and spend an hour with us in the saloon. We half led, half carried, him from his berth and sat him down on the after lockers.

The stranger looked from one to the other of us with an expression that was pitiful in his eager longing to give utterance to some half formed ideas. Then suddenly he turned to me and asked:

"What year is this?" I told him.

"I thought perhaps it was a frightful dream," he murmured, "but it was reality. Six years! My God, six years!"

He stopped abruptly and covered his face with his hands. Holroyd poured out a glass of wine and gave it to him. This brightened him up a bit, and he slowly began again:

"On the 20th of December, six years ago, we sailed from Adelaide in the ship Enterprise on an exploring expedition in the antarctic regions. The captain's name was Cleveland.

"We steered for Kerguelan island, where we landed some seal fishers, and then proceeded on our voyage. On the 27th of January we made out some high land on the port bow. To the west the water was full of summer ice, but the water was clear to the southward, and we pushed on until the 23d of March, when we were beset in the ice pack, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that we warped the ship into a small inlet which the captain determined to make his winter quarters.

"As soon as the ship was safely moored we started to explore this desolate land, which no living man had ever set foot upon or even seen. It was evidently part of a great southern continent which stretched beyond the pole itself. And over those frightful and voiceless solitudes of snow Cleveland determined to force his way as soon as spring rendered traveling possible.

"With the first traces of returning light we made preparations for an expedition to the south, and on the 24th of September we started. For a month we traveled under a sky as blue as Italy's, and then the weather changed. Fogs, snowstorms and gales succeeded each other, rendering traveling a work of such difficulty and danger that we had to make the best of our way back to the ship, which we reached in January, only to find that the ice had forced her high up on the shore amid a mass of debris. She was still habitable, though she would never float again.

"Six more weary months dragged by. Escape to the north being cut off by a barrier of ice mountains, Captain Cleveland determined to make another attempt to cross the polar sea, or continent, whichever it was, and reach Graham Land, where he might be picked up by a whaler.

"Our original crew of 35 was now reduced by sickness and accident to about 20. We carried a quantity of provisions, hoisted the ensign at the peak and bade goodby to the Enterprise on Oct. 26.

"As we advanced farther the peaks and rough ground fell away until an unbroken sheet of snow stretched away before us. Nowhere else on earth would it be possible to find such utter desolation.

"The crew held a consultation, and even the boldest of them, being dismayed by the gloomy prospect, addressed a request to Captain Cleveland to return to the Enterprise. This he refused to do, but eight men determined to go back alone, and so, giving them one of the sledges and their provisions, we parted company. Whether they ever reached the ship I know not.

"We kept on and on, forever toward the south, and one by one my companions died along the road until there were only four of us left—the captain, myself and two seamen. It was about this time that I fell into a sort of trance. How long I continued in this dazed state I do not know, but when I recovered consciousness I found myself standing on a rocky headland gazing down upon a ship which was imbedded in the center of a field of rough ice. A few paces from me stood Captain Cleveland, gaunt and hollow eyed. No one else was in sight.

"The strange ship was the American whaler Resolution, which we discovered from her log had been abandoned in latitude 74 degrees south and longitude 90 degrees west 38 years before. I could not believe my eyes when I read '90 degrees west longitude.' What does it mean? I muttered.

"'It means,' said Captain Cleveland, 'that we have crossed the south polar continent from the eastern to the western hemisphere. We have done that which will make us famous.' Famous! Of what use was fame to us?"

"It is the strangest story I ever heard," said Holroyd.

"We found a quantity of provisions on board," the speaker continued, "most of which was in good condition. And aboard the old whaler we took up our winter quarters. I won't trouble you with an account of how we passed our long, weary months of imprisonment. I lost all account of time, but I believe now that for nearly three years that ship's cabin was our home.

"Such a life will shake the foundations of the strongest mind, and it was near the end of another polar night that Cleveland suddenly went mad, clambered down upon the ice and ran wildly toward the south. I never saw him again."

The narrator broke down completely at this point, but soon took up his story.

"Gradually, inch by inch, the ship worked her way through miles of pack ice, and one morning I awoke to find a glorious expanse of open water in front of me, through which the ship slowly glided. For days—aye, weeks—I drifted on over the deserted ocean, with never a sail in sight. The loneliness was awful. I longed for companionship and dared not go down into the cabin, for every sound made me start in terror."

During the latter part of his recital the wanderer's voice had grown weaker and weaker, his pauses longer and more frequent. We again offered him wine, but he refused it.

"At length I took up my abode on deck altogether, living in the galley," he went on. "And from that time until I found myself—here—I remember—nothing. How long—I have—been drifting"—

He stopped and gazed at us with a glassy stare. Then he tried to speak again, but no words came from his lips. Suddenly his head fell forward upon his chest, and his arms dropped limply to his side. The doctor caught him as he collapsed, and between us we carried him to his bunk. Ere another day's sun rose he was dead. The derelict had reached port at last.

Such is the strange story of James Wilson, found on the ship Resolution, as told by himself.—St. Louis Republic.

Poor Scotch Students.

Many students from their highland homes have appeared at the beginning of the academic year with a bag of oatmeal and a barrel of potatoes, representing the sole store of life and energy for months to come. So common was this practice that a holiday in midyear was appointed, known as Mealie Monday, in order to give the students an opportunity of returning home to replenish their larder. This day is still observed as a holiday.

In his reminiscences of Edinburgh Robert Chambers tells the story of his early experiences at the university—how a friend, his brother and himself had lived together, and each had brought to the common store a bag of oatmeal. The three bags hung from one of the rafters of their room, and the landlady would scrupulously take a handful of the meal from each bag in order to mix the morning porridge, according to a strictly equitable principle of distribution.

It must be remembered also that in many cases untold sacrifices must be borne in the homes whence the sons set forth to secure an education in order that they may live in a university town at all even in the simplest possible manner. It is by no means an isolated case that story of the father who had but three cows, and one of them he sold in order to send his son to St. Andrew's.—Scribner's.

A Heavyweight.

The traveler in London about a century ago might have noticed the following poster:

Mr. Daniel Lambert of Leicester,
The heaviest man that ever lived,
Weighs upward of fifty stone.

Mr. Lambert will see company at his house, 53 Piccadilly, next Albany, nearly opposite St. James church, from 11 to 5 o'clock. Tickets of admission, 1 shilling each.

Mr. Lambert had been keeper of the old county bridewell at Leicester and, despite his physical immensity, was a very intelligent and active person. A Kentish innkeeper named Palmer, weighing only 350 pounds, visited Mr. Lambert and appears to have been deeply mortified at his own inferiority, for on returning home he was suddenly taken ill and died. Mr. Lambert weighed 739 pounds just before his death.

PITH AND POINT.

Very few people want to know the truth unless it fits their prejudice.

Every one who doesn't like you is looking for a chance to laugh at you.

A great deal of nerve is sometimes necessary to keep from being cranky.

You know a whole lot if you know enough to know you don't know anything.

When a boy is not invited to a party, he hangs around the outside to see how things are going.

When a dressmaker makes a quilt out of silk scraps, the women begin to look at her with suspicion.

Every one is some kind of a sinner. The employee too honest to take a postage stamp will steal his employer's time.

Be sensible with your children. When you want them to do a thing, tell them why. Don't tell them they must do it or take a beating, or that they must do it because you say so.—Atchison Globe.

An Undesirable Boarder.

Some time ago the keeper of a boarding house retired from business after having acquired a comfortable competency in the course of about 20 years. During that period her house became well known in the city and among the women in her own business. She never realized how well known it was until she set out to find a place to live in herself.

She applied first at the house kept by a woman nearly as well known as herself only to learn that there was no room for her. It was not until she had been through the same experience several times that she came to understand that she was not wanted in the establishments of her former rivals. Her reputation for keeping a fine house was too much for the other women, who did not want to submit to the scrutiny of a former boarding house keeper who had made a reputation and a fortune in the business.

She learned, after going to a hotel where her record could not be used against her, that she was not the only woman who had found it difficult to get into a boarding house after having kept one of her own. When they are well known, it is practically impossible for such women to find quarters, for whatever her reasons may be the landlady does not like to shelter her kind.—New York Sun.

Old Militia Elections and New.

From the American Revolution to the year 1823 the officers of the militia of the state of New York had been appointed by the council of appointment upon the recommendation of commanding officers of divisions, brigades and regiments, and the promotions were generally made according to rank and seniority. Under the new constitution and the militia law of 1823, and in accordance with the democratic spirit of the period, the election of military officers became the established usage and has continued until the present day. The election of officers in 1823 and following year was attended with considerable ceremony—officers attending them in full uniform, and noncommissioned officers and privates in undress uniform.—Clark's History.

Unselfish.

"So you proposed to Miss Chillers?"

"Yes," answered Willie Washington.

"You must have known she would reject you."

"Of course. But it is an old saying that women can't keep a secret, and I was afraid she would get to comparing notes. I had proposed to all the other girls, and I didn't want her to feel slighted."—Washington Star.

An Outrage.

Mrs. Jones—Are you aware, Mrs. Skinbone, that your dog has just bitten my little Willie?

Mrs. Skinbone—What, your Willie, who has only just got over scarlet fever? Oh, Mrs. Jones, if anything should happen to Fido I'd never forgive you.

That Gold Spoon.

There are some men who seem to be favorites of fortune. They are industrious, cheerful workers, full to overflowing of the energy of splendid health, and success seems fairly to drop into their hands. It is of such as these that the less hardy and less successful man says enviously, "That fellow was born with a gold spoon in his mouth." And yet on analysis it will be found that this success is largely due to splendid health, the endowment of a healthy mother.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives the mother health to give her child. It cures nervousness, nausea and sleeplessness. It makes the body comfortable and the mind content. It gives physical vigor and muscular elasticity so that the baby's advent is practically painless.

"I will endeavor to tell you of the many benefits I have derived from taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. B. E. Robertson, of Medicine Lodge, Barber Co., Kans. "In the fall of 1899 I was expecting to become a mother and suffered terribly with pains in the back of head; in fact I ached all over. Suffered with awful bearing-down pains; I was threatened for weeks with mishap. A lady friend told me to use Dr. Pierce's medicines. She had taken them and felt like a new woman. I began using the 'Favorite Prescription' and took four bottles before my baby came and two afterwards. I suffered almost death with my other two children, but hardly realized that I was sick when this baby was born and she weighed twelve and one-quarter pounds. She is now eleven months old and has never known an hour's sickness; at present she weighs thirty-seven pounds. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, and sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

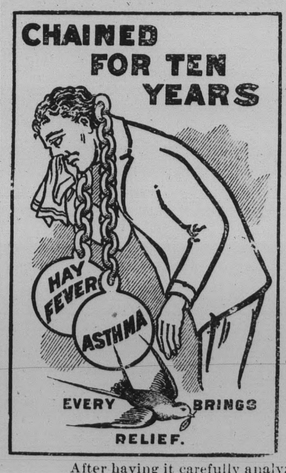
WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.



There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.,
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is wonderful and astonishing

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1. 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic Asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After taking one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. February 5, 1901.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make use of as you see fit.

THE CALIFORNIA HOME OUTRAGE.

THE expulsion of Dr. Osborne from the California Home is one of the most high-handed and diabolical political acts on record. When scheming, notorious political hacks attack an institution like the Home and remove an efficient man for no cause whatever it is time for every fair-minded citizen to raise his voice in protest.

The very fact of a man with an unblemished public record of fifteen years being given but two days "to get out" is atrocious. It is depriving the State of a valuable servant and hundreds of poor little unfortunate children of a kind and sympathetic friend.

We who have lived in sight of the institution know how effectively it has been managed by Dr. Osborne. We have been conscious every day of the excellent work done, of the careful training and the skilful medical attention being given each and every one of the unfortunates within the big brick walls at Eldridge. The training of feeble minds is wonderful work and can only be done under the direction of a highly eminent specialist. Dr. Osborne is such. He has made a life study of this particular branch of his science and he understands the weaklings under his care better than a father does his child. The children have learned to love him who has been among them so long, but he must now leave them to the tender mercies of a hard-hearted indifferent political favorite.

It is a monstrous act of injustice to the people of the State that such schemes can be railroaded through. It is a violation of every ethical code that a man like Dr. Osborne should be deposed in so ruthless a fashion.

It is the duty of the press and pulpit to join hands in this matter and do all within their power to help right this great wrong.

COL. HUMPHREYS, the last of the gallant six hundred who "rode into the valley of death" at Balaklava and whose heroic charge has been immortalized by Tennyson, is dead. The old hero passed away in the poor house as Santa Rosa, a sad commentary on the ungratefulness of the country he fought and bled for, as Col. Humphreys when he emerged from that sanguinary charge of the Light Brigade was literally shot and hacked to pieces. He survived his wounds, however, and lived to die a pauper.

THE editor of the Ladies' Home Journal says every young man should read a good daily newspaper. He should select that paper which stands for honesty in its news and the highest purposes in its editorial expression. One paper is sufficient but let it be the best.

The Ride of His Life.

Judge J. W. Gibson of Glen Ellen had an experience on Monday afternoon that he is not desirous of repeating, says the Press Democrat of Santa Rosa. He was driving in a cart down what is known as the Petaluma grade near his home town. The road is narrow in places and two teams cannot pass at the same time. All of a sudden he heard a noise behind him and discovered that a runaway team of horses attached to a big wagon were coming toward him at a break-neck pace. There was nothing to do but to try a race to get out of their way. Consequently the Judge whipped up his nag and for close on to two miles dashed along at an alarming rate of speed. John Gilpin's famous ride to London town was not "in it" with Judge Gibson's ride to Glen Ellen. He got out of the way, however, and thanks his lucky stars that he did.

General Debility

Day in and out there is that feeling of weakness that makes a burden of itself.
Food does not strengthen.
Sleep does not refresh.
It is hard to do, hard to bear, what should be easy,—vitality is on the ebb, and the whole system suffers.

THE OBSERVER.

THE DECLINE OF GALLANTRY.

Women deplore the decline of gallantry. They hesitate to apply the term gentleman to the average man. The Twentieth Century gentleman can do anything but cheat at cards and still be a gentleman. There are gentlemen burglars now days. There are gentlemen bunco men, gentlemen absconders and gentlemen forgers. Gentlemen can do things an ordinary man would shudder to contemplate. A gentleman can relieve you of $20,000 in broad daylight and the faintest suspicion will not be uttered against him. His suavity of manner, his polish, his excellent repartee cover up all tracks of the criminal and he improves his artifice of manner for this very purpose. Let a poor ragged uncouth fellow steal a loaf of bread and he falls into the meshes of the law in the twinkling of an eye. He is not a gentleman. He has not the silvery-tongued eloquence. Neither has he the aristocratic back-bone of his more chivalous brother. He is just plain Terry Hogan.

Gentlemen now days are not what they were in the past. There was a time when a gentleman meant more than fine manners and repartee. In the days of chivalry "when knighthood was in flower" a knight's duties were: "To pray, to avoid sin, to defend the church, the widow and the orphan, to protect the people, to travel far and wide, to make war loyally, to fight for his lady, to love his lord and to listen to good and true men." This was the ideal gentleman of mediæval times. With the decline of feudalism, chivalry lost some of its color but it was no less real.

The spirit of chivalry left behind it a more valuable successor—the gentleman of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries This gentleman possessed the true instincts, though too often he was adorned with superficial glitter and pagentry.

Time has effaced this type. From the latter part of the seventeenth century there has come such a change in society that he whom we now call a gentleman would hardly be recognized as a legitimate descendant of his predecessor. The growth of commerce, wider instruction and the "leveling of social intercourse" has tended toward the decline. Even courtesy to women has declined, and declined very rapidly, in the last fifty years and this for ages was the true attribute of the gentleman. Women themselves have helped to bring about this condition of affairs. They have tried to supercede men in all lines of business. They have cried out against a state of dependence. They have put away the protecting arm and insisted that they be let stand alone. Strong-minded women took it into their heads to shape the affairs of women and they have done so. Men now treat women rather as their equals. If they meet in a crowded car it is a case of first come first served. If they meet in commercial affairs it is on a strictly business basis. No more concessions to the ladies. Women have not a high enough reverence for their sex. Hence the deterioration of modern gallantry.

The average Twentieth century man may be a gentleman according to the modern criterion. But men, let not this guide you. Build more lordly mansions in your souls.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

Prentiss Hutchinson Disappears.

Prentiss Hutchinson of Oakland, well-known here, has disappeared. Young Hutchinson, with his sister and brother Dwight Hutchinson, has spent many summers on the Watriss place near Agua Caliente. This summer they went to Mendocino county and last Sunday Prentiss Hutchinson went out hunting in the mountains and has not been heard of since. His horse was found without a rider and fears are entertained that the young man will never be found alive. Searching parties have been scouring the deep ravines and brushy canyons about Covelo, but to no purpose. His relatives are almost frantic in their efforts to find him.

Prentiss Hutchinson was a promising young man and held a high place in society. It is to be hoped that the mystery of his singular disappearance will not prove as terrible as anticipated.

Capt. Johnson of Buena Vista presented this office with a box of Bartlett pears one day this week. The Captain is one of Sonoma Valley's thrifty farmers and as a landlubber can manage a farm as well as he can navigate a ship.

The Grangers of this place had a social meeting Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows Hall. Pleasant converse and vocal and instrumental music were the principal features of the evening's enjoyment, not forgetting the dainty refreshments which were served by Mrs. Hardy and Mr. Jas. Tate, who had that part of the entertainment in hand.

An effort is being made by a number of the patrons of the Sonoma Postoffice to have the box rent reduced from $1 per quarter to 50 cents. With this object in view a paper is being circulated asking those who are not already renting boxes to agree to do so provided the rental is reduced to 50 cents. A little over one-half of the boxes only are at present being used by the patrons of the postoffice and if all can be rented Postmaster Cheeny will request the postal authorities to make the reduction. We trust everybody will stand in on the proposition.

Geo. W. Rodehaver of El Laurel has had several sheep stolen from a corral on the Miller place, this side of Petaluma, the past two weeks. Thinking to capture the thief he secured the services of officer Meyers of Petaluma who stationed a watchman inside the barn at night to lay for the marauder. On the sixth night of the midnight vigil the sleuth was rewarded by seeing a man jump the corral. The barn door had been left partially open and behind this with his eye glued to a crack he awaited developments. After sizing things up on the outside the prowler suddenly approached the partially opened door and gave it a vigorous shove and it came back with a bang, pasting the watchman squarely on the nose and nearly flooring him. He quickly recovered himself, however, and covering the intruder with his gun caused him to surrender. Upon investigation the fellow was found to be a drunken tramp armed with a jug of wine and seeking a place to sleep off the effects of too much booze.

OUTRAGEOUS CHANGE AT THE CALIFORNIA HOME.

Superintendent Osborne Brutally Ousted by Governor Gage and His Political Henchmen.

For the past six months it has been whispered about that Governor Gage intended to make a big change in the management of the California Home at Eldridge—in other words, that the present efficient Superintendent, Dr. A. E. Osborne, would be asked to step down and out in order to make way for a new man.

As it was believed that the Board of Directors of the Home were very favorable to Superintendent Osborne's incumbency the rumors of his intended removal that were floating around in the air were not looked upon seriously by his friends or the friends of the institution.

The resignation of Dr. W. P. Lawlor, a director of the Board, the other day, and the appointment by the Governor of Thomas P. Rooney vice F. W. Lougee, and Herbert F. Duggan to take the place made vacant by Dr. Lawlor's resignation, however, changed the aspect of things.

Thursday the directors of the Home were hastily called together in special session at the Grand Hotel, San Francisco.

The object of the meeting was to force Dr. A. E. Osborne, the Superintendent, to resign and appoint Dr. Wm. M. Lawlor to his place.

Previous to the meeting Director McKenzie sought to induce Dr. Osborne to resign and tried to trap him into doing so by saying the resignation would not be accepted. McKinzie's chicanery did not work, however, as he was curtly informed by Dr. Osborne that he would not resign. That if they wanted to get rid of him they would have to depose him.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman R. A. Poppe of this place. The directors were all present as follows: J. T. Harrington of Colusa, J. McKenzie of San Jose, T. H. Rooney and H. F. Duggan of San Francisco. Dr. and Mrs. Osborne were also present.

After calling the meeting to order Mr. Poppe, who characterized the proceedings as an outrage, resigned the chairmanship and McKenzie was was called to the chair.

The board then went into executive session and against the protests of director Poppe the other directors removed Dr. Osborne and appointed Dr. Lawlor in his place.

Dr. Osborne was given only three days to prepare to leave the Home counting Sunday.

The retirement of Dr. Osborne as Superintendent of the Feeble Minded Home right in the midst of his usefulness is a great misfortune to his poor unfortunate charges, than whom nobody is more capable of understanding their needs and contributing to their comfort and happiness.

His removal is unjust and brutal in the extreme.

THE MARTINONI WILL.

Denied Probate by Judge Dougherty.

When Stephen Martinoni, the well-known hotel keeper, died in this place last month, he left a will which was executed July 12, 1895, and witnessed by Pietro Roveda and Angelo Pera. The will nominated Robt. A. Poppe as executor, and as such he filed it for probate in the Superior Court of this county. The will left all of his estate to his surviving widow with the exception of $5, which was devised to a daughter by a former marriage.

An opinion in the matter, which has been pending since the 19th inst., was rendered last Monday by Judge Dougherty. He denied the probating of the will in the following decision:

"This is an application to probate the will of Stephen Martinoni, deceased, dated July 12, 1895. A defect lies in its execution and is fatal to its admission. There is but one subscribing witness and the law requires two, who must sign their names as witnesses at the end of the will. There is an attempt to have the second subscribing witness. Under the name of the first subscribing witness appears the name: "Angelo (his—x—mark) Pera." If this mark was properly witnessed, as is provided in Section 17, C. C. P., it would be the signature of Angelo Pera. Without this requirement it is no signature and the will is not witnessed according to law.

Section 1276, C. C. P., prior to July 1st last provided that wills must be attested by two witnesses, each of whom must sign his name as a witness. This was strictly construed in the estate of Walker, 110 Cal., 389, to mean that the subscribing witness must sign his own name as a witness, which would exclude the signing by mark. This section, however, has been amended and now the witnesses are not required to sign their own names, but each must sign the same as a witness. Probate is denied."

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

The Aged Mother of Mrs. C. C. Champlain Seriously Injured.

On Monday last while Mrs. C. C. Champlin and her aged mother were returning from Petaluma to their ranch near this place they met with an accident which came very near proving fatal to the latter. When near El Laurel the horse which Mrs. Champlin was driving stumbled and fell. Both ladies were pitched headlong out of the buggy, striking the hard roadbed with great force. Mrs. Champlain was bruised and badly shaken up while the injuries received by the old lady, which would have been only painful to a younger person, came nigh proving fatal in her case owing to her enfeebled condition. Fortunately aid was near at hand and the hurts of the ladies were attended to and they were assisted to their home.

The horse after stumbling regained his feet, ran away and completely wrecked the buggy.

FRIGHTFUL DEATH.

Brakeman Longdon Killed at Napa Junction.

Ross Longdon, a brakeman on the Southern Pacific, whose run was between Vallejo and Santa Rosa, met a frightful death at Vallejo Junction last Saturday afternoon.

The unfortunate man, who was attached to the freight train, was engaged in switching and while adjusting the lever was run over by a heavy freight train and literally ground to pieces. One arm was dismembered, both legs were horribly crushed and the wheels passed over his prostrate body. That he was not instantly killed was short of the marvelous. He was alive, however, but unconscious when picked up. He expired while being conveyed on a fast train to his home in Vallejo.

There were no eye-witnesses to the accident and just how poor Longdon got under the wheels will never be known.

The deceased was 23 years of age and was well known at all the Southern Pacific stations in this valley.

Chapter of Accidents.

Fred. Ball, a lineman in the employ of the California Central Electric Power Company, while at work on the line near the Dresel place, Thursday morning last, fell from the top of an electric light pole and received internal injuries which the attending physician, Dr. Thomson, does not consider necessarily fatal. The injured man is now resting easy in his room at the Toscano Hotel.

One day last week a dairyman named Boverino, in the employ of G. Mascioroni of Sears' Point, was kicked by a vicious cow and his head over the left ear was severely cut by the sharp hoofs of the animal. He was treated by Dr. Walliser who sewed up the gaping wound

The five-year-old boy of Mr. and Mrs. D. Valente fell and broke his left shoulder Sunday afternoon last. He was treated by Dr. Walliser who encased the shoulder in a plaster of Paris jacket.

While engaged in a friendly scuffle Sunday night Josephi Angelini dislocated his left shoulder. The ligaments of the arm were also badly torn. The dislocation was reduced by Dr. Walliser and Angelini is now carrying his arm in a sling

A. Rigoni, a blockmaker, was assaulted last Sunday afternoon by an unknown person. He was struck on the head with a demijohn and his scalp was badly larcerated. He bled profusely from the wound which was sewed up by Dr. Walliser.

THE SONOMA VALLEY BOARD OF TRADE.

President Osborne Discusses Its Aims and Purposes.

ED. OF THE INDEX-TRIBUNE—Sir: The Sonoma Valley Board of Trade has now been in existence several months. It has a Board of Managers of representative citizens. Its officers represent the several professions and business interests and its gross membership includes some of the best known and most successful of our citizens. As the official exponent of our valley's business and industrial life the organization can be considered as fully established. What it may now lack is additional membership and the hearty co-operation of every resident of the valley who has his own as well as the general interest of the community at heart.

It is being asked on all sides, however, "What is the Board of Trade doing?" What is it going to do? What has it done in the months that it has been in existence, etc.? And the defeat of the cannery proposition, the falling through of the Bulletin special editions, and the failure thus far to herald some gigantic improvement are suggested as evidences that Old Sonoma is indeed moribund and that the Board of Trade will fail utterly to do any lasting and substantial good. We are told that the "knocker" is abroad and to resurrect the community from its apparent apathy is a hopeless task. Let us see if there is good reason for this criticism.

In the first place we must remember that "Rome was not built in a day," and that the slower, sturdier growth of the oak has figured since the dawn of poetry and prose to give figurative protest against the quicker growth of the mushroom with its few days of instability. Communities are not born to full development—that comes from slow and steady growth. They are the result of conditions, another word for environment. The development of any community's resources is a matter of time and the organization that would attempt its successful exploitation requires time to consider, analyze, discuss and digest the innumerable forces at work or to be set to work and the varying conditions existing. To the writer's mind the fact that the local Board of Trade has gone along slowly is more an evidence of its inherent stability than of weakness. This is not a year for booms and Sonoma Valley is not to be sacrificed to boom methods. The citizen, therefore, who is disappointed that the Board of Trade has not figured in some conspicuous and spectacular exhibition of itself need sit up no longer—he may as well go to bed—there will be no torchlight procession to night. The Board of Trade aims to pursue the safer though more conservative lines of well established business principles, and is not cut to break any boom records.

The writer would further protest against the assertion that the "knocker" is out to do up the Board, etc. Bless your soul "knockers" are not half as dangerous to a community as men would have you believe. It is true they sometimes hurt when their hammers hits one's tender spots, but after all is not the "knocker" a man with an idea? True the idea may not always be of the best or most progressive, but isn't the man with an idea to be preferred to the man who has none, or worse, if he has, keeps it to himself? If a proposition is a good one it can well stand the assaults of the "knocker," and will be all the more potent and practical because of the "loving marks of the hammer upon it," as Hubbard would say. If the proposition under consideration cannot withstand honest criticism it is an evidence of its inherent weakness and it merits oblivion. One of the chief troubles of our day and generation is the inordinate and harmful haste injected into all we attempt. We eat too fast, we work too fast and too long each day. We drive our energies too rapidly and exhaustively and the result is disastrous to peace of mind, health of body and permanent success in business enterprise.

I am willing to concede that Sonoma Valley is a little slow and that the Board of Trade has not been meteoric in its flight, but I am still far from being discouraged. On the other hand since the organization honored me by calling me to its highest official office I have been most agreeably surprised at the solid element of enterprise underlying the civic organization in this valley and I have been most faithfully and honestly supported in all measures looking to public benefit by the men with whom I have conferred and by those with whom I have been thrown in business contact. This support has come spontaneously and with an earnest desire to serve without selfish motive the public interests, and I wish now and here to give public testimonial of my personal gratitude and appreciation of the attitude I here refer to and to the uniform courtesy and good will with which all have met my official acts and suggestions.

But I am digressing. I intended to answer one or two criticisms only. The fact that the cannery people were offered more money to go to Petaluma than to come to Sonoma must not be charged as a "failure" on the part of any one or any organization. The firm, it is presumed, knew what they wanted and what would best suit their pocket book as well as their immediate business needs. That they chose to go to Petaluma indicates neither Petaluma's superiority nor Sonoma's inferiority in the matter of the feasibility of the establishment of a cannery at the latter town. It was simply a business hazard in which Petaluma won out. Another firm may shortly determine that for its special needs Sonoma offers as good if not superior advantages to any other town in the State. That a cannery will eventually be established in Sonoma is simply a question of time. It is one of the needs of the place and a public necessity almost.

To many it has been a regret that the Bulletin write-up was not accomplished. That it fell through has not worked any disaster to the valley, however, and as one who advocated the measure I would say the Board of Trade has accomplished some good in the matter, though the effort did not terminate as was proposed by its advocates. Much discussion resulted, innumerable ideas were called forth, a wide interchange of opinion was secured and through long and thorough disputation of the matter we were all brought to a more intimate acquaintance with not only the feelings of the public citizen on the question of write ups, etc., but also with the special features of advertising the valley and its resources. For that experience the Board stands to day better qualified for advertising the valley than if this experience had not been had. The man with an idea was called out and though he pretty effectually hammered the proposition out of shape he also hammered into shape new projects which promise to be even more valuable than the original one.

I have had the question asked me frequently, "What does the Board of Trade intend to do?" To answer all these questionings I would suggest the following as being some of the things that ought to be done by somebody and which will no doubt be attempted by the Board sooner or later. They are offered as matters of public policy and utility, many of them constituting public necessities. Many of these have been already under discussion in a general way between members of the Board.

First—Burn or otherwise destroy and remove all dried grass and rubbish from along the streets and highways of the valley. During our dry seasons the dry grass and weeds constitute a standing menace from fire and much damage is done every summer from neglect of this precaution, resulting in fires destroying fences, adjacent pasturage, etc., and sometimes buildings and crops. If the owners of the ranches and properties along the roads and streets do not do this work it should be the duty of the town or county officials to do it. Our roadways are unsightly and give the traveler the impression that the community is indifferent and behind the times. As soon as owners can be made to realize the advantages of having their property abut upon clean highways they will be ever ready to co-operate and the results attained will more than repay all the expense involved by the increased valuation to land by the cleaning up. Dirty streets and poor sidewalks in a town and bad roads fringed with waving weeds littered with rubbish in the country districts give visitors the worst possible impressions regarding the progressiveness of a community or the intelligence and enterprise of its people.

Second—Have all thistles, teazles and noxious weeds killed and removed from the roadways and insist that farmers shall keep their fence rows cleared of the same. Between Eldridge and Sonoma there are prolific patches of noxious weeds along the road, left standing year after year, to have their seeds wafted over adjoining ranch lands to there take root and pollute the crops. If farmer A cares nothing for the sightliness of his ranch nor the presence of weeds and tares in his crops, thereby diminishing their value, etc., surely farmer B, who lives a mile away and works early and late to enhance the value of his holdings, has some rights in the matter and should not be made to suffer from A's indifference and neglect. I don't know how many times I have had visitors from other counties in the State—particularly from Santa Clara where the people are very particular about these matters—call my attention to these things, with the comment that it was evident that our people were not "clean" farmers. How long do our people desire they shall live under these accusations?

Third—The roads should be sprinkled. I have recently had some correspondence with the Supervisor of this district on this matter and I regret that he has failed to satisfactorily answer my letters under this head or to impress me that he is sufficiently wide awake to the needs of the public. As a servant of the people, elected virtually as a rebuke to former neglect, he certainly should understand that when our people courteously ask that the county keep its obligations with them it is his duty to do all that can be done to meet their just demands. There is no good and sufficient excuse why all the roads in the valley should not be sprinkled, and I sincerely trust the man with the hammer will take a fresh grip on his weapon and do a little knocking where it will be felt for the public good.

Fourth—Sonoma City needs a Woman's Improvement Club or auxiliary to the Board of Trade to take up the matter of securing the cleanliness of the town streets and the renovation of the Plaza. In the oldest California town, the birth place of American expansion and the cradle of our State, there should be perpetuated that quaint and proper characteristic of the old Spanish regime—a public Plaza—a thing of beauty and a bit of green to refresh the eye, a breathing place and a rendezvous for the inhabitants. Since the men will do nothing towards making the Plaza a fitting memorial of former days let the women take hold of the subject and work together to not only revive the old-time plan but make the place an attractive feature of the town. The expense will be trifling. Bright geraniums can be had for the asking, grass will grow if watered, walks can be trimmed and kept clean, trees will be thankful, if plants can feel, for a little pruning, and the deft art of woman's hand can quickly transform what is now a thing far from beautiful into a joy forever. The women of Sonoma are not excelled by any in our State for intelligence or the possession of good taste and the womanly virtues. It will not require many of them to become banded together to have their influence felt along these lines. Such an organization will surely prosper and would be a most potent aid to the general Board of Trade in all local matters. Let them cast an eye upon the historic landmarks with which Sonoma is dotted and which in their day served to make history for our glorious State and note their present ruin. Not a hand put out to save from decay and the selfish march of Time, the Mission, the Presidio and the adobe. Not a voice raised to save from desecration the holiest of the possessions of our predecessors on this soil. Even the name of Vallejo—the most illustrious of his race and day and to whom the Americans owe a debt they can never repay, a man of singular eminence and worthy of the highest praise, a man whom the history of the coast has not duplicated in conspicuous service rendered our people—even the name of Vallejo is becoming a fable though his worthy descendants still live among us. Cannot something be done to preserve the old historical features of Sonoma and collect for the benefit of future generations data, views, relics and narratives from those who saw or know, and thus aid in making Sonoma famous as she has a right to be. It will not be long before the greed of the times and the indifference of the coming generation will wipe out of existence the last vestage of these things and thus incalculable loss will be sustained unless some organized effort is put forth to save them. Who so well adapted to do this work as the women of Sonoma? I repeat, Sonoma needs a Woman's Improvement or Land Mark Club.

Fifth—Sonoma also needs a new City Hall. I am conscious I am now saying what every one in Sonoma well knows. Some day it will have just such an up-to-date City Hall as it really needs—some day when the Woman's Improvement Club gets down to business and so improves the Plaza that the present structure occupying the centre of the Plaza surrounded then by heliotrope and jassamine and flanked by beds of bright colored flowers to gladden the eye and refresh the senses, will look like the relic of other days mutely appealing to the City Fathers to come and mercifully remove it from surroundings so strangely new and so incongruous. Then will the men of the town rise up in their shame and replace the City Hall with a modern building, retaining the beautiful features of the old Spanish architecture, a symposium in dull red tiles and toned down yellow and white, with cool arches and graceful sweeps, and in which will be found an ample amusement hall, reading rooms, gymnasium for the school boys and girls, and the town telephone exchange, connecting with more than three-fourths of the residences and farm houses within a radius of ten miles. This telephone system will be owned and operated by the town and the public served at a nominal rental to cover cost of service. (This last suggestion bears the brand "Robert Hall." It is his creation, but I make use of it in this connection because I know it is one of the most important as well as most practical of all the many suggestions offered to the Board "to do.")

And when all this has happened let us premise that the Sonoma Band, reorganized and gorgeous in natty uniforms, will be found giving evening concerts on the Plaza, beautiful for the delectation of the townspeople and the pleased and surprised stranger within her gates, and that once a week during the long and pleasant summer the band will repair to the God's Acre on the hill and there offer a tuneful dirge over the grave of the last Silurian who gave up the unequal struggle to keep up with the new order of things, and who passed away with the assertion on his lips that he dated his downfall and decline from the day that the Board of Trade "got the women to a-going to do up the town!"

Mr. Editor, there are, seriously, many other things that might be said along the line of what the Board of Trade shall find to do. I refrain from firing off all of my ammunition in one volley, however, and if you and your patient readers show a feeling of forgiveness toward me for this overlong letter I may be induced at an other time to say more on the subject—one in which I am profoundly interested.

Yours for the prosperity of Sonoma Valley in general and for the success of the Board of Trade in particular.

A. E. OSBORNE, M. D.,
President Sonoma Valley Board of Trade.

THE ALPHABET'S MEETING.

The alphabet met and said that "they
Were not arranged in a proper way."
A had stood at the head too long;
It was not right; it was utterly wrong,
"For you all know and can plainly see
That place belongs to me," said G.
"You take the head, indeed!" said J;
"That place is meant for my dear K."
"Tut, tut, tut! Well, well, well!
I'll stand there myself then," said L.
"Excuse us, please, we think that we Have a word to say," said B, C, D.

"Suppose you have," said F as he
Softly whispered a word to R.
"Who'll prevent, I'd like to know,
Standing head M, N or O?"
"We've listened in silence to all of you
And now will 'head' you," said P and Q.
"Our impression is, you had better try,"
Then angrily spoke both H and I.
"How rude and coarse!" said R, S, T.
"The 'airs' of some!" said U and V.
"Would drive one mad," said W, X, Y, Z.
But, after all, the letters still stand
A at the head, at the foot &.

TALK OF MARRIAGE.

It Is Proper For the Man, but Not For the Girl, Apparently.

A man may remark on his intention to marry at some indefinite future time, when prudence or other considerations may make it possible or advisable, without having, as a rule, to run the gantlet of a chorus of impertinent and stupid would be witty remarks. But should a girl be bold enough, or, rather, natural and simple enough, to say the same thing what would be the result? Why, every one knows that she would be promptly sneered out of countenance.

And why? Is it immodest for a woman to express a determination to enter into a state which we are being continually reminded is a natural and honorable state, while it is modest and proper for a man to do so? Such a distinction would never be drawn except for the "cheapness" to which reference has been made.

If a man wants to marry, he can marry. If the first woman he asks refuses him, he has only to ask a second or perhaps a third or fourth. It would be safe to guarantee that within a month any man of fairly respectable life and position and appearance who cared to make the experiment could marry in his own class, could marry probably a woman much superior to himself.

But what about the girl who intends to marry "some day?" Is she not in a very different position from the man? Here is a girl of good character—much better than the man's, probably—average intelligence, average good looks. Theoretically she is free to marry whom she will, but is she? If she receives one distinct offer of marriage, she has had more than her share, according to the probable average.

The fact that by an unwritten law a woman must not take, and, indeed, does not want to take, the initiative has very little to do with the extremely limited choice which modern conditions impose upon English women.—Nineteenth Century.

Swallowed Two Pounds of Stone.

Stones do not form part of the recognized diet of the cormorant, but one of these birds in the National Zoological park in Washington had a craving which could be satisfied only by eating two pounds of stones. The keeper's attention was attracted to the bird because after having once sat down it couldn't get up. He was picked up, and then the stones were heard rattling inside of him. An official connected with the park decided that something must be done, and he promptly cut the cormorant open and relieved him of his burden. One of the stones, of irregular shape, was 3½ inches long. The incision was sewed up, and for five days the bird got along all right, the wound healing finely, but at the end of that time the cormorant grew restive and pulled out the stitches with his hooked bill. As a consequence of opening up the wound he died.

Artificial Stone.

Quarrymen and stone dressers will probably be gradually crowded out of their occupation by the use of artificial stone. In the manufacture of this stone the sand is heated and the cement added to the amount of 12 per cent of the mixture. The steel molds are filled with the dry material and moved into an immense cylinder, which is closed and bolted. Boiling water is then turned in under pressure sufficient to force it all through the sand in the molds. The cement slacks, but the steel molds do not permit any expansion to occur, and the stone is formed and dried under an immense pressure. The result is a very hard stone, which can be supplied in shapes desired and much cheaper than the natural stone.

Noncooking Restaurants.

Odd as it may appear to dwellers in small cities, some of the down town restaurants of New York are in buildings in which no cooking is allowed. Some of the busiest of the midday restaurants purchase all their meats and stews already cooked and merely heat them through again before serving them to patrons. This branch of the restaurant business has reached such proportions that the mere operation of cooking for such places has become an established business, and owners of ovens thrive at it.—New York Sun.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under the Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid, gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucuous membranes, causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH, by removing the cause, stopping the discharge and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external med cine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD in the HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION—"SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES" the "GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE."

Sent prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on the receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. E 428, EDWIN B. GILES & COMPANY, 2330 and 2332 Market street, Philadelphia.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." For sale by F. Duhring. *

At Bed Time

I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a gentle laxative. It is made from herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's Medicine. All druggists sell it at 25cts and 50cts. Lane's family medicine moves the bowels each day. If you cannot get it send for a free sample. Address, Orator F. Woodward, Le Roy, N. Y.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once." Sold by F. Duhring. *

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

A Few Pointers.

The recen statistics of the number of deaths show that the large majority die of consumption. This disease may commence with an apparently harmless cough which can be cured instantly by Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, which is guaranteed to cure and relieve all cases.
